The study of English is crucial to the learning and development of all young Australians. It helps create confident communicators, imaginative thinkers and informed citizens. It is the study of English that individuals learn to analyse, understand, communicate and build relationships with others and with the world around them. The study of English plays a key role in the development of reading and literacy skills which help young people develop the knowledge and skills needed for education, training, and the workplace. It helps them become ethical, thoughtful, informed and active members of society. In this light, it is clear that the Australian Curriculum: English is an important part in developing the understanding, attitudes and capabilities of those who will take responsibility for Australia's future.

Australia is a linguistically and culturally diverse country, with participation in many aspects of Australian life dependent on effective communication in standard Australian English. In addition, proficiency in English is invaluable globally. The Australian Curriculum: English contributes to nation-building and to internationalisation.

The Australian Curriculum: English also helps students to engage imaginatively and critically with literature to expand the scope of their experiences and develop engagement with the English language. It also enables students to explore the English literary heritage through their distinctive ways of representing and communicating knowledge, traditions and experience. The Australian Curriculum: English values, respects and explores this contribution. It also emphasises Australia's links to Asia.

The Australian Curriculum: English aims to ensure that students:

- learn to listen to, read, view, speak, write, create and reflect on increasingly complex and sophisticated spoken, written and multimodal texts across a growing range of contexts with accuracy, fluency and voice.
- appreciate, enjoy and use the English language in all its variants and develop understanding of its power to evoke feelings, convey information, form ideas, facilitate interaction with others, entertain, persuade and argue.
- understand how Standard Australian English works in its spoken and written forms and in combination with non-linguistic forms of communication to create meaning.
- develop interest and skills in inquiry into the aesthetic aspects of texts, and develop an informed appreciation of literature.

The English curriculum is built around the three interrelated strands of language, literature and literacy. Teaching and learning programs should balance and integrate all three strands. Together, the strands focus on developing students' knowledge, understanding and skills in listening, reading, viewing, speaking, writing and creating. Learning in English builds on concepts, skills and processes developed in earlier years, and teachers will revisit and strengthen these as needed.

In Years 7 and 8, students interact with peers, teachers, individuals, groups and community members in a range of face-to-face and online/interactive environments. They experience learning in both familiar and unfamiliar contexts that relate to the school curriculum, local community, regional and global contexts. Students engage with a variety of texts for enjoyment. They listen to, read, view, interpret, evaluate and perform a range of spoken, written and multimodal texts in which the primary purpose is aesthetic, as well as texts designed to inform and persuade. These include various types of media texts including newspapers, magazines and digital texts, early adolescent novels, non-fiction, poetry and dramatic performances. Students develop their understanding of how texts, including media texts, are influenced by context and purpose. The range of literary texts for Foundation to Year 10 comprises Australian literature, including the oral narrative traditions of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Peoples, as well as the contemporary literature of these two cultural groups, and classic and contemporary world literature, including texts from and about Asia.

Literary texts that support and extend students in Years 7 and 8 as independent readers are realist, fantasy, speculative fiction and historical genres and involve some challenging and unpredictable plot sequences and a range of non-stereotypical characters. These texts explore themes of interpersonal relationships and ethical dilemmas within real-world and fictional settings and represent a variety of perspectives. Informative texts present technical and content information from various sources about specialised topics. Text structures are more complex including chapters, headings and subheadings, tables of contents, indexes and glossaries. Language features include a range of complex sentences with embedded clauses, unfamiliar words, figurative and rhetorical language, and information supported by various types of graphics.

Students create a range of imaginative, informative and persuasive texts, for example narratives, procedures, performances, reports and discussions, and continue to create literary analyses and transformations of texts.

The Australian Curriculum: English Foundation to Year 10 is organised into three interrelated strands that support students' growing understanding and use of Standard Australian English (English). Each strand interacts with and enriches the other strands in creative and flexible ways, the fabric of the three strands is strengthened by the threads within each strand. Together, the three strands form an integrating framework of disciplinary knowledge and focus on developing students' knowledge, understanding and skills in listening, reading, viewing, speaking and writing from Foundation to Year 10. The three strands are: Language: knowing about the English language, Literature: understanding, appreciating, responding to, analysing and creating literary texts and Literacy: expanding the repertoire of English usage.

Year 8 Achievement Standard

Receptive modes (listening, reading and viewing)

By the end of Year 8, students understand how the selection of test structures is influenced by the selection of language mode and how this varies for different purposes and audiences. Students explain how language features, images and vocabulary are used to represent different ideas and issues in texts. Students interpret texts, questioning the reliability of sources of ideas and information. They select evidence from the text to show how events, situations and people can be represented from different viewpoints. They listen for and identify different emphases in texts, using that understanding to elaborate on discussion.

Productive modes (speaking, writing and creating)

Students understand how the selection of language features can be used for particular purposes and effects. They explain the effectiveness of language choices they make to influence the audience. Through combining ideas, images and language features from other texts, students show how ideas can be expressed in new ways.

Students create texts for different purposes, selecting language to influence audience response. They make presentations and contribute actively to class and group discussions, using language patterns for effect. When creating and editing texts to create specific effects, they take into account intended purposes and the needs and interests of audiences. They demonstrate understanding of grammar, select vocabulary for effect and use accurate spelling and punctuation.

Rationale

Understand the effect of nominalisation in the writing of informative and persuasive texts. Vary according to the context and purpose. Students need to be able to use nominalisation in the correct context to create effective informative and persuasive texts.

Text structure and organisation developed through the use of metaphor, irony and parody

Language for interaction

Understand the influence and impact that the English language has had on the curriculum being strengthened by the threads within each strand. Students create texts for different purposes, selecting language to influence audience response. They make presentations and contribute actively to class and group discussions, using language patterns for effect. When creating and editing texts to create specific effects, they take into account intended purposes and the needs and interests of audiences. They demonstrate understanding of grammar, select vocabulary for effect and use accurate spelling and punctuation.

Foundation to Year 1

The Australian Curriculum: English also helps students to engage imaginatively and critically with literature to expand the scope of their experiences and develop engagement with the English language. It also enables students to explore the English literary heritage through their distinctive ways of representing and communicating knowledge, traditions and experience. The Australian Curriculum: English values, respects and explores this contribution. It also emphasises Australia's links to Asia.

Aims

The Australian Curriculum: English aims to ensure that students:

- learn to listen to, read, view, speak, write, create and reflect on increasingly complex and sophisticated spoken, written and multimodal texts across a growing range of contexts with accuracy, fluency and voice.
- appreciate, enjoy and use the English language in all its variants and develop understanding of its power to evoke feelings, convey information, form ideas, facilitate interaction with others, entertain, persuade and argue.
- understand how Standard Australian English works in its spoken and written forms and in combination with non-linguistic forms of communication to create meaning.
- develop interest and skills in inquiry into the aesthetic aspects of texts, and develop an informed appreciation of literature.

Structure

The Australian Curriculum: English Foundation to Year 10 is organised into three interrelated strands that support students' growing understanding and use of Standard Australian English (English). Each strand interacts with and enriches the other strands in creative and flexible ways, the fabric of the three strands is strengthened by the threads within each strand. Together, the three strands form an integrating framework of disciplinary knowledge and focus on developing students' knowledge, understanding and skills in listening, reading, viewing, speaking and writing from Foundation to Year 10. The three strands are: Language: knowing about the English language, Literature: understanding, appreciating, responding to, analysing and creating literary texts and Literacy: expanding the repertoire of English usage.

Year 8 Content Descriptions

Language

Language variation and change

Understand the influence and impact that the English language has had on other languages or dialects and how English has been influenced in return. Language for interaction

Understand how conventions of speech adopted by communities influence the identities of people in those communities. Understand how technical devices are used to persuade and how different layers of meaning are developed through the use of metaphor, irony and parody.

Text structure and organisation

Analyse how the text structures and language features of persuasive texts, including media texts, vary according to the context and purpose. Understand how cohesion in texts is improved by strengthening the internal structure of paragraphs through the use of examples, quotations and substantiation of claims. Understand how technical devices are used to persuade and how different layers of meaning are developed through the use of metaphor, irony and parody.

Literature

Literature and context

Explore the ways that ideas and viewpoints in literary texts drawn from different historical, social and cultural contexts may reflect or challenge the values of individuals and communities. Explore the interconnectedness of Country/Place, People, Identity and Culture in texts including those by Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander authors. Recognise the importance of literature as an expression of the world, cultures, individuals and communities in society, and how texts position readers in relation to those groups. Recognise and explain differing viewpoints about the world, cultures, individual people and communities represented in texts.

Examine literature

Recognise, explain and analyse the ways literary texts draw on readers’ knowledge of other texts and enable new understanding and appreciation of aesthetic qualities. Identify and evaluate devices that create tone, for example humour, wordplay, innuendo and parody in poetry, humorous prose, drama or visual texts. Interpret and analyse language choices, including sentence patterns, dialogue, imagery and concrete meaning features, in short stories, literary essays and plays. Create literature

Create literary texts that draw upon textual structures and language features of other texts for particular purposes and effects. Experiment with particular language features drawn from different types of texts, including combinations of language and visual choices to create new texts.

Literacy

Texts in context

Analyse and explain how language has evolved over time and how technology and the media have influenced language use and forms of communication.

Interacting with others

Interpret the stated and implied meanings in spoken texts, and use evidence to support or challenge different perspectives. Use interaction skills for identified purposes, using voice and language conventions to suit different situations, selecting vocabulary, modulating voice and using elements such as music, images and sound for specific effects. Plan, rehearse and deliver presentations, selecting and sequencing appropriate content, including multimodal elements, to reflect a diversity of viewpoints.

Interpreting, analysing, evaluating

Interpret and analyse the ways that text structures and language features vary according to the purpose of the text and the ways that referenced sources add to the text. Apply increasing knowledge of vocabulary, text structures and language features to understand the content of texts. Use comprehension strategies to interpret and evaluate texts by reflecting on the validity of content and the credibility of sources, including finding evidence in the text for the author’s point of view. Explore and explain the ways authors combine different modes and media in creating texts, and the impact of these choices on the viewer/listener.

Creating texts

Create imaginative, informative and persuasive texts that raise issues, report events and advance opinions, using deliberate language and textual choices, and including digital elements as appropriate. Experiment with text structures and language features to refine and clarify ideas to improve the impact of students’ own texts. Use a range of software, including word processing programs, to create, edit and publish texts imaginatively.